

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system and method for remote data processing and storage includes a remote data processing and storage device operational remotely from a data exchange infrastructure using a virtual interface and certain protocols to direct data traffic and use, and for 5 security, programs for sharing and access, and a business method for commercial utilization of the system based on fee-charged system use, and for data product sales, and for verification of data.